

About Us

Hey! We're a nice little team devoted to consult and support our mostly e-commerce-focused developer teams with DevOps-related hot stuff like automation, containerization, orchestration and cloud technologies.

About The Opportunity

We're searching for a new team member, that has either an ops background and dev interest or vice versa. It's a permanent, full time job offer located in Dortmund, Germany with partial home office possibilities.

We know that we probably can't find someone, who has all skills denoted below, but if you're open and interested in learning new things, you might as well fit in.

Skill & Qualifications

German and English language skills are required.

For the rest, please check out the official job offer on our website.

How To Apply

First, check out the official job offer on our website and then apply online right there.

Please feel free to leave questions in the comments section.

*Originally published to dev.to